Fire Warden Short Course

Course Content

- Background to fire safety legislation
- The Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005
- An introduction to Fire Risk Assessments
- Action to be taken on discovering a fire
- Action to be taken on hearing the fire alarm
- The means for giving warning of fire
- The means of escape in case of fire
- The means for fighting fire
- Fire prevention
- Fire protection
- Arson control
- General fire safety awareness

Who should attend?

Having appointed your fire wardens/marshals, you now need them to be trained, so that in the event of an emergency they know what to do. The Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 requires staff to be provided with training and where persons are appointed to assist in the event of an evacuation, they must be provided with suitable training to be able to discharge those responsibilities.

Our courses are delivered at our Wimbledon training centre with a combination of classroom based theory and practical hands on use of portable fire extinguishers. Using state of the art, environmentally friendly fire training simulators, your fire wardens can experience first hand the use of extinguishers in tackling a controlled fire.

Fire Risk Assessment and Consultancy

Consultancy Services

One area where our consultants can add real value is multi-site fire risk assessments. We have a network of associates and additional resources, including an IT support team, allowing us to deliver management information from those assessments so that our clients can make informed risk management decisions.

If you have multiple sites it can be difficult to know where to start – and if you contract out all of the fire risk assessments, you then have lots of individual reports to read. However, we can make your life a lot easier by providing data which highlights key trends and high risk areas, effectively prioritising your management action plan. We are also able to help clients interpret and prioritise information they have received from risk assessments conducted by others.

All of our consultants and associate consultants are qualified and experienced fire risk assessors with many years of experience in fire safety, either through careers in enforcement or fire safety consultancy. Our approach in undertaking fire risk assessments is to ensure that we fully understand our clients' businesses.

We have experience in many different sectors including:

- Offices and Shops
- Commercial Buildings
- Residential Buildings
- Educational Buildings
- Small and Medium Places of Assembly
- Sleeping Accommodation
- Warehouses and Factories

Clients include:

- Property Managers
- Investment Companies
- Property Developers
- ALMOs
- Social Housing Providers
- Charities
- Schools and Colleges
- Social and Sports Clubs
