

IOSH Directing Safely

The course aims to provide directors/owners of organisations with an understanding of the moral, legal and business case for proactive health and safety management and give guidance on effective risk. The course reflects the principles embodied in the UK Health and Safety Executive's guidance 'Successful Health and Safety Management (HSG65) and The Turnbull report'.

Who Should Attend?

Directors and/or owners of small- and medium-sized enterprises.

Aims

The principal aims are to provide delegates with sufficient knowledge and information to allow them to discharge their supervisory function with respect to health and safety.

Content

- The importance of strategic health and safety management and its interaction with other business systems
- Directors' and employers' statutory duties
- Identifying accident causes and plans for prevention through hazard identification, risk assessment and control strategies
- The consequences of failing to manage health and safety effectively
- The importance of employee selection and the effect of human factors on health and safety
- The importance of consultation and communication with employees on health and safety issues
- The significance of performance monitoring for continual improvement of health and safety management
