Nineteen Group acquires Emergency Services Show

THE AWARD-winning Nineteen Group has acquired Broden Media Limited, the organisers of The Emergency Services Show and publishers of Emergency Services Times magazine.

On the back of the purchase of Western Business Exhibitions and investment from Phoenix Equity Partners, the acquisition of Broden Media Limited adds another major event at the NEC in Birmingham to the Nineteen Group portfolio as well as another leading publication with Emergency Services Times.

Broden Media Limited delivers the very successful annual 'The Emergency Services Show' at the NEC, in September each year. This year the show takes place from 18-19 September, in the largest space at the NEC, Hall 5.

The Emergency Services Show is a two-day event bringing together all disciplines from the emergency services sector.

The exhibition is in its 14th year and features over 450 exhibiting companies including leading names in vehicles and fleet, technology, medical and fire-fighting equipment, search and rescue and much more.

NEBOSH Top up Certificates

RRC IS the UK's leading HSE training provider, having helped well over a million students achieve professional success it leads the way in health and safety training.

Achieving a NEBOSH Certificate is a huge success and can improve future career prospects. However, another benefit is that if students have been awarded the NEBOSH National or International General, Construction or Fire Certificate in the last 5 years they are exempt from Unit IGC1/NGC1, and can gain a further NEBOSH Certificate by simply 'topping-up' by completing the appropriate second unit.

All RRC NEBOSH General, Fire and Construction Certificate courses are unitised so can be topped up by classroom training or an online course. Having two or more NEBOSH Certificates helps individuals to stand out to employers and can improve career prospects by having this additional specialised knowledge.

Gary Fallaize, RRC's managing director said, "Certificate Top-ups are great because they recognise the learning you have already achieved and allow you a quick route to gain that additional knowledge and NEBOSH Certificate."

Trigion now offers fire systems

SECURITY SPECIALISTS Trigion has strengthened its offer with the launch of a new fire systems business.

The fire systems business will be headed-up by Neil Twigg, a highly respected professional with over 20 years' experience in the fire and safety industry. Specifically appointed by Trigion to lead the newly-formed division, Neil has worked on a wide range of projects, from fire alarm systems for small commercial premises, to complex detection and suppression systems for blue chip national account customers, industrial complexes and data centres.

Trigion's new fire protection measures will include fire alarm installation and maintenance, emergency lighting fitting and upkeep, active fire protection systems provision and preservation, including sprinklers, water-mist and gaseous fire extinguishing systems, passive fire protection systems maintenance and remedial works, including fire doors, fire compartmentation and fire stopping.

Paul Grist, director of Trigion Security Services, said, "We are delighted to bring to market our new fire systems service, which perfectly complements our already established security offer. We are now able to offer our clients a total end-to-end fire and security solution, which means all their safety needs can be taken care of through just one single supplier.
